

The shafts of the light blue planet gears move around the sun as the planets rotate on their own axis. The two electric motors are on the two suns. The orange motor is on the left-hand sun, the brown motor is on the middle sun, and the output is on the green sun. The input from the grey engine is on the dark green carrier. The light blue planets are all connected together.